All sites have directions on the site to help you.

Also, make sure that your drawing corresponds to the characteristics of your super hero. Example: If sulfur is your chosen element, the superhero's uniform or hair or skin, etc. must be yellow since sulfur has a characteristic yellow color. If your element has a high melting point, you might say that your super hero can move through fire to save others. If your element is a gas, you might say that your villain can sneak through a crack into a room. If your element explosively reacts with water, you might say that your super hero uses water to create explosions to stop his/her enemies.

Make sure your super hero is in color. You can print it out in black in white and then add color with colored pencils or crayons or print out your super hero at home with a color printer.
